REFLECTIVE T-SHIRT ORIOLUS SIZE M

Overview

The certified warning shirt from the Oriolus series is a piece of workwear designed for tasks performed in environments with an increased risk of being struck by vehicles, machinery, or other moving objects. It has been designed to ensure high visibility for the user in a full 360° range, both in daylight and after dark, which is crucial for safety in traffic areas. This model meets the requirements of Class 2 visibility and is applicable in various scenarios, including road works, green maintenance in roadside areas, railway zones, docks, airports, and in industrial and logistics areas. Appropriately placed, wide reflective strips provide a clear outline of the silhouette from all sides. When combined with the Oriolus warning trousers, the shirt achieves Class 3 visibility, in accordance with current standards. The Oriolus series features a simple, technical design combined with precise finishing and durable materials. The shirt is made from breathable bird eye polyester fabric, which effectively wicks moisture away, is flexible, and comfortable against the skin. With a weight of 140 g/m², the garment performs well during intensive work in spring and autumn, providing a balance between breathability and durability. The material retains its required warning properties even after 25 wash cycles, which is significant for regular use in work conditions.
