REFLECTIVE LONGSLEEVE SHIRT ORIOLUS SIZE XL

Overview

The Oriolus long-sleeve warning shirt is certified workwear designed for tasks performed in conditions requiring increased visibility of the user. It is particularly effective for roadwork, construction, infrastructure projects, and in areas where the worker is exposed to vehicle or machinery traffic. The long sleeves further enhance the visible silhouette and provide better protection against the cold during transitional periods. The Oriolus series features a simple, technical design and meticulous finishing that meets the demands of daily work in the field. The use of wide, sewn reflective strips improves the user's visibility both in daylight and at night, increasing safety in low-visibility areas. The shirt is made from a blend of cotton and polyester, providing a favorable combination of comfort and durability. The natural cotton enhances breathability and offers a pleasant feel against the skin, while the addition of polyester increases the material's resistance to wear and frequent washing. With a weight of 160 g/m², the garment performs well during early spring and autumn work, offering a balance between thermal protection and freedom of movement.
